What is this product?

Income Protection Plus is a long-term permanent health insurance contract known as a Holloway contract.

The primary objective of Income Protection Plus is to provide you with income benefit in the event you are unable to work because of illness or injury. When income benefit payments will commence, how much will be paid and for how long will be agreed with you before your policy starts.

The secondary objective of Income Protection Plus is to pay you a lump sum when the Plan reaches maturity. This amount will vary according to the period for which the policy runs, and the Society's pooled claims experience, management costs and investment results during the policy term. Annual Bonuses will be declared at the discretion of the Board of the Society each year after taking into consideration the advice of the Society's Appointed Actuary.

The Society invests accrued surpluses from Income Protection Plus business collectively in a mix of equities, government gilts, corporate bonds, property and cash. This spread of asset classes allows for a balanced long-term investment strategy that is designed to ensure long-term fund growth within a framework that manages the level of investment market risk and the level of credit risk to ensure the fund is always sufficiently liquid to make insurance payments to policyholders when requested.

Your Income Protection Plus policy cannot be terminated by the Society unilaterally provided you observe the terms of your contract. You can end the policy yourself by giving us appropriate notice of your intention to do so.

What are the risks and what could I get in return?

Summary Risk Indicator ('SRI')

The SRI is a guide to the level of risk of this product compared to other products and aims to show you how likely it is that the product will lose money because of the movement in investment markets or because we are not able to pay you.

We have classified Income Protection Plus as 3 out of 7 which is a "medium-low" risk. This rates potential losses from future investment performance as very unlikely because of the spread of non-complex assets the fund invests in. The amount of the final lump sum payment will depend primarily on the Society's annual surpluses throughout your policy term. The level of an annual surplus will depend on the Society's pooled claims experience, management costs and investment performance. If investment performance is poor over a long period, or if sickness claims or management costs are significantly higher than expected, then it is possible that no capital sum will build up.

If you do not hold your Income Protection Plus policy until its maturity date the risk of getting back less than originally advised to you at outset is significantly higher. Although the policy should run to retirement age we recommend having it for a minimum of 10 years provided you still have a need for income protection cover.

If we are not able to pay you what is owed you may lose some or all your capital but you may benefit from a consumer protection scheme (please see the later section "What happens if Pharmaceutical and General Provident Society Limited is unable to pay out").

How long should I hold it and can I take money out early?

You should hold the Plan for as long as the income protection it provides is needed by you. By holding the policy for the medium to long term there is a greater probability that you will achieve the level of lump sum that you expected at the beginning of the policy.

If you cancel the policy, or fall into arrears before your 60th birthday, the accumulated sum will be subject to a deduction of the previous two years bonuses. If you cancel your policy after less than two years subscriptions, or if you are expelled from the Society at any time, you may forfeit all of your accumulated funds.

You can withdraw up to £500 for specified purposes agreed with us such as medical treatment, death of a close relative or financial distress, without a penalty charge.

How can I complain?
